

Meridian active speakers

Meridian's latest speaker, the DSP7000, is a four-way active unit that includes everything bar a CD transport. From your CD player you can output a signal in digital form directly to the DSP7000. On-board DACs and amps convert the signal: each speaker contains three digital converters; four 100W amplifiers; three crossovers; and four custom drivers, all contained in the striking lacquered, curved cabinet.

Each '7000 uses two 200mm custom-made bass drivers, with mid and treble units mounted in a separate chamber. The treble unit is a 25mm semi-horned loaded dome with a silver voice-coil; the mid uses a 160mm polypropylene driver. User controls include volume, bass/treble, listening axis and absolute phase.

Prices start at £16,175 per piano-black pair, and £8210 for a single centre-channel. Custom colours are available at extra cost.
